

ESL Class: Week of Nov 3

I. Opening Prayer: Hail Mary

II. Review from last week: see Lesson Plan 1

- Big Ideas:

- English and Spanish have common origins
- English is crazy!
- English learning:

From the ear >> to the mouth >> to the brain

(Desde el >> del oído hasta la boca >> hasta el cerebro)

III. Getting to know English

- See handout “Conocer el inglés”
- English spelling is complicated due to the multiple origins of English (Celtic, Anglo-Saxon, French, Latin, Greek, etc.)
(La ortografía inglesa es complicada debido a los múltiples orígenes del inglés (celta, anglosajón, francés, latín, griego, etc.)
- That is why English has many “synonyms” (similar meaning) and “homophones” (sound the same, spell differently)
(Es por eso que el inglés tiene muchos "sinónimos" (significado similar) y "homófonos" (suenan igual, se escriben de manera diferente)
- We also discussed last week how English has extra vowel sounds, called “diphthongs”
(También discutimos la semana pasada cómo el inglés tiene sonidos vocálicos adicionales, llamados "diptongos")

IV. English Pronunciation Practice

- Share reading these sentences with your partner/s:
(Comparte la lectura de estas frases con tu/s compañero/s:)
 1. The brave knight fought fearlessly as shouts echoed across the field.
 2. The bright moonlight shines on the meadow, where the deer graze, casting eerie shadows.
 3. As the sea unfurled its misty veil, the boat's sail caught the gale.
- See worksheet “Common Errors Spanish speakers make in English”

V. Articles review and worksheet and/or Singular/ Plural practice
